DOVER, N. H., Jan. 26, 1853 Messrs. A. G. Brace & Co. - I had a valuable horse that about three weeks since was wounded severely in his thigh, with a sharp hook, opening a gash three inches in length and an inch or more deep. I tried various articles to heal it, but inflamation getting into it caused large quantities of matter to collect, and the limb was quite stiff. A friend of mineasked me if I had tried the Mustang Liniment to which I replied in the negative, but Hoping that others may be benefitted by a trial of your valuble compound. I remain yours.

Echoes. Still the angel stars are shining, Still the rippling waters flow, But the angel-voice is silent That I heard here long ago, Hark! the echoes murmur low Long ago!

Still the wood is dim and lonely, Still the plashing fountains play, But the past and all its beauty, Whither has it fled away? Hark! the mournful echoes say Fled away

Still the bird of night complaineth (Now, indeed, her song is pain,) Visions of my happy hours, Do I call, and call in vain? Hark! the echoes cry again All in vain

Cease, oh echoes, mournful echoes, Once I loved your voices well! Now my heart is sick and weary, Days of old, a long farewell! Hark! the echoes sad and dreary Cry farewell, farewell!

Fun in California.

There is a little paper printed in San Diego, California, called the San Diego Herald-an ordinary grave paper, that went into the support of John Bigler for Governor, and that was not suspected of ever being inclined to fun. The editor's name is J. Judson Ames, a country judge and a moderate man. Lately-before the election-he took it into his head to go on a tour to another part of the State, to electioneer probably for the democratic Bigler, and entrusted the Herald during his absence to the charge of John Phoenix, Esq., a gentleman of that ilk, known in this vicinity by the name of Derby.

But the Judge had forgotten to inquire into the nature of Mr. Phœnix's politics, and the first thing the new editor did was to change the political character of the Herald by running up the Whig flag, bearing the name of William Walda for Governor. mediately wrote back a letter to Phoenix, telling him to bring the Herald back to its allegiance; whereupon Phœnix declares his democracy-that his sup-

Mr. Phonix in his arm chair writes an eloquent valedictory on retiring from the editorship. He · Te Deum Laudamus .-- Judge Ames has returned! With the completion of this article my labors are ended; and, wiping my pen on my coat-tail, and placing it behind my sinister ear with a graceful bow and bland smile for my honored admirers, and a wink of intense meaning for my enemies, I shall abdicate with dignity the 'arm-chair' in favor of its legitimate proprietor. By the way, this 'armchair' is but a pleasant fiction of 'Boston's'-the only seat in the Herald office, being the empty nail keg, which I have occupied while writing my leadpurpose of a table. But such is life. Divested of admiration become mere common places, like the Liver, Kidneys, and other Secretory Organs to a healthy tone Herald's chair and table. Many ideas which we have learned to love and reverence from the poetry of imagination as tables, become old sugar boxes on close inspection and more intimate acquaintance."

If he has given offence to any one, he is ready to accept their apologies. He says: gradually, passed through all the stages of incipitent whiggery decided conservatism, dignified recantation, budding democracy and rampart radicalism, and now close the series with an entirely literary number, in which I have carefully abstained from the mention of Balde and Wigler, I mean Wagler and Baldo, nonever mind-as Toodles says, I havn't mentioned any of 'em, but been careful to preserve a perfect armed

The description of the arrival home of Judge Ames

"Coolly we gazed from the office upon the new town road, we described a cloud of dust in the disthe son of Nimshi, for he driveth furiously."

Calmly we seated ourselves in the arm chair, and continued our labors. Anon a step, a heavy step, was heard upon the stairs, and Boston' stood before us. In shape and gesture proudly eminent, stood like a tower but his face deep scars of thunder threshold of great events, whether eventuating in had entrenched, and care sat on his faded cheek; but under brows of dauntless courage and considerate "Cossack" or "Republican," time alone is to tell. pride, waiting revenge.' We rose, and with an unfaultering voice said, 'Well, Judge, how do you do ' He made no reply, but commenced taking off his coat, sends forth jottings from Cincinnati, in a recent epis-We removed ours, also our cravat.

The sixth and last round is described by the press- A very amusing incident occurred on Walnut st. would with great respect assure them, that no pains has been | Chafes Scratches, Sprains and bruises, and it has proved very nose (which we had inserted between his teeth for that coming up the street, and when they arrived oppospared to select the richest, handsomest, and most fashior a- effectual. One of our host has got kicked, and be fails to please, and he fails to please, and their immess and they are please to make the sheep, and it deviating with the 'sheeps's foot' brandished above our head, somewhat frightened the sheep, and it deviating one of his hands, we held the other in our left, and go into an alley, but a man suddenly coming out, LINIMENT was resorted to, and the sorness and lameness was shouted to him, 'say Waldo.' Never! he gasped - slightly from the true course, darted into a fance soon removed, and it was perfectly well in three or four days. -

Oh! my Big-ler, he would have muttered. But that he dried up ere the word was uttered.

At this moment we discovered that we had been laboring under a 'misunderstanding,' and through the We have used it extensively, and always effectually. Some of amicable intervention of the pressman, who thrust a our men have also used it for severe Bruises and Sores, as well roller between our faces, (which gave the whole afonly say that we have entirely abandoned the use of any other fair a very different complexion,) the matter was finally settled on the most friendly terms, and without prejudice to the honor of either party.' We write left stocking, and the rim of our hat encircling our neck like a ruff of the Elizabethan era, -- that article of dress having been knocked over our head at an early stage of the preceedings, and the crown subsequently torn off, while the judge is sopping his eyes with cold water in the next room, a small boy standing beside the sufferer with a basin, and glancing with thinking it might do some good, was induced to try it. I had on-ly used one half bottle when the inflamation began to be removed and the wound to heal. Now it is entirely healed and the hair the San Diego Herald, a fair copy of which was is growing over the wound, making it look as well as ever - struck off upon the back of his shirt at the time we like an exhalation from the sea. This youngest and held him over the press.

Converting the French.-It is said that a Scotch clergyman once undertook to convert some French prisoners, confined in a castle. Returning from the castle one day, the Missionary met Dr Henry, when the following dialogue, as we learn slaves, executing the iron will of a despot. Here from a popular monthly, took place:

From the New York Express 30th ult. The War in the East.

Facts, instead of fictions, seem at length to be the staple of the Intelligence that now comes to us from the banks of the Danube. The war between the two powers has now fairly begun, but where or when it is to end, nobody is prophet enough to foretell. The Mahommedan troops, so far, if the accounts that come to us are correct, have opened the campaign in a blaze of glory that gives them a prestige for the future. The Russian Bear, it is evident, had underrated the prowess of his antagonist, but the result of the combat at Oltenitza has by this time given him some useful knowledge on that score, which will be likely to govern his calculations to more auspicious conclusions hereafter. It is acquiring information at a rather dear price, however, in the loss of some 3000 troops. Flushed with a succession of brilliant victories, the Turks, at last dates, were moving on to attack Galatz, a seaport of some importance, in the province of Moldavia, on the left bank of the Danube, between the mouths of the Sereth and the Pruth. It has been invested by the Russians, and it is to dislodge them, and to drive them from thence, from off the Turkish soil, that the troops of Omer Pacha have taken up their march. The prayer of pretty much all Europe, we imagine, is, that victory may again perch upon their banners

Meanwhile, what will be the effect of these ignominious deteats at St. Petersburgh? If Turkey begins the campaign thus successfully, single-handed, and alone, what might she be expected to do ith such backers as Great Britain and France? Such an imposing combination might be expected to appal a Prince less headstrong and boldly ambitions than the Emperor Nicholas: but after what has already tak en place, it is greatly to be doubted that his audacity is unequal to that contingency, all formidable and imposing as it is. An alliance between England and France, Nicholas may not extravagantly assume, is an unnatural one at best, and can not long endure .-Besides, there are possibilities of a renewed revolution in France, which might be greatly prompted by the involvements and embarrassments of a foreign war .-If these possibilities ripen into realities, of course the entente cordiale with England must necessarily be at avowing himself ready to "embrace democracy on the war on her own account; but if she did, her with ardor, slap her on the back, and declare himon South River. The Lands are adapted to making Turpentine and Timber. There is a good Saw Mill in good running to compare with it. It cleanses the system of all impurities, attack upon her empire in India, that her powers, on land or on sea, might be shorn of its present and traditional formidableness.

But dismissing these calculatious, the Emperor may argue,-what it the Western powers really enter the lists? They cannot invade my territory. They cannot damage me, at home. Their fleets would find it a difficult matter to reach me by the Black Sea, at least during the winter season. They may send their steamers through the Hellespont, into the Black Sea -but there are no large cities there to give them quarter, or to " pay expenses." As to invading my territories, that is but to fall in my trap, as Napoleon Bonaparte did. True, the ships of war may damage and capture some of my merchant ships, but that is a game which both, or all three of us can play at .-There is nothing to fear, therefore looking at the enemy in his most threatening attitude. The war must go on! So we think, is the proper interpretation of Nesselrode's last note, and particularly the expression upon which peculiar emphasis is laid-" IT IS NOT FOR RUSSIA TO SEEK FOR NEW EXPEDIENTS, OR TO ASSUME THE INITIATIVE OF MAKING OVERTURES OF RECONCILIATION." This is sufficiently explicit, taking in connextion with its coincidents, we think, to fully bear out the conclusion, that the war is to go on. The Emperor of Russia may err in his calculations of a prospective want of harmony between England and France, -as we think he certainly does err already, in his estimate of the impression he is able to make, by means of an attack upon the British posers upon the inverted sugar box, that answers the sessions in the East Indies. There are natural barits poetry and romance, the objects of our highest mount, and even if he could surmount them, the adriers there set up against him, which he cannot survantages he might gain would be more than counterbalanced by losses accruing from the absence of I is troops elsewhere. We cannot believe Nicholas seriously meditates any such blunder, as a march to Affghanistan or Cabul,-but nevertheless, we can easily see that the motive he has for disseminating "Commencing as an independent journal, I have tion in joining in alliance against him, than the spirit that idea, is to impose upon England a greater hesitaof her people and the tone of her press betray at pre. sent. But, we see the threat thus to invade India, and to make common cause with the Affghans, is only received with decision and scorn in London. The rumored resignation of Lord Aberdeen at this crisis, portends something -but that something is not on the side of peace, if it is accepted, as an indication of the change of the Ministry en masse, as at present constituted. Through the successive stages of the diplomacy, employed to avert an arbitrament of arms, in this Turkish question, "the temporizing policy" of British Cabinet has been all along the capital stock of an intelligent, and powerful, and daring opposition. The "Peace" that has been so tance, high above it waved a whip lash, and we said far preserved, has been pronounced "disgraceful" and ter's Almanae gratis, giving full particulars and certificates 'Boston' cometh and his 'driving is like that of Jehu chumiliating,"—and it is just possible that this rumor of the retirement of the first Lord of the Treasury, may be a precursor of a change in her majesty's Councils, which may decide whether Great Britain is to enter the list against Russia or not. Be that as it may, however, Europe is again on the Liberalism or Despotism,-whether to leave her man and compositors as having been fearfully scien. the other day, illustrative of the natural instinct of tific. We held 'Boston' down over the press by our one sheep following another. A small drove was lamp store, followed by the whole flock. The crowd, eager to witness the sport, instantly blockaded the door, so that there was no egress for the unceremonious visitors, and as said famp store was too contracted to sait their peculiar notions, and wishing to regain their liberty as speedily as possible, they saw no other means of escape but through the window. One of them made a break, and leaped clear through the show-window upon the pavement, dethis while sitting without any clothing, except our molishing in its progress, glass-ware, china, &c., with an alacrity truly praiseworthy. The crowd immediately fell back from the door, and allowed a free passage, but every sheep jumped through that hole

PECULIARITIES OF SHEEP .- A letter writer who tle, tells the following story as one that actually occurred in that city:

JOHN MITCHEL'S DESCRIPTION OF SAN FRANCISCO. -"Here, on the spot where I stand-here, where five years ago a solitary ship sometimes visited a lonely bay of the ocean, at the back of the globe, for a cargo of skins-here has risen this stately city fairest daughter of your great republic was yet unborn when I fell asleep. I awake in the Tyre of the Pacific. No fata-morgana city of air is this. The genii have not piled it up with clouds. Neither is it, like the city of the Czars, or the city of the Constantines, the enforced workmanship of vassals or stands the fair achievement of free and sovereign citizens, doing their own behest and for their own behoof-a city staunch and potent, opulent and free -Esto perpetua.
